ALSA Conference 2006

SHERATON NOOSA RESORT AND SPA 30TH JULY-5TH AUGUST

The ALSA Conference is arguably the most highly respected package liquor industry conference, acclaimed as a unique learning experience as well as a fantastic week of fun and relaxation. ALSA's mix of hard hitting business sessions, updates on industry trends and new products, training through the Retail Liquor Development Foundation and social networking opportunities puts it at the forefront of industry conferences.

Alepat Taylor on the Move

Alepat Taylor will be moving premises to 62 Albert Street Preston (Victoria) in 2006. After only nine years at its custom-built warehouse in Brunswick, Alepat Taylor is now ready to move in to much bigger premises.

As with its current custom-built facilities, all production, warehouse and administration facilities will be housed under the same roof, ensuring a synchronised and efficient work environment.

The new property will see Alepat's production facilities more than triple in size, together with extended wine and spirit storage with a maximum capacity of 1.5 million litres of wine and over 400,000 litres of spirits. There has also been the acquisition of other equipment, including a robotic palletiser. The new production hall will include four bottling lines, with the ability to bottle not only wines and spirits but also mineral waters and soft drinks.

The overall site encompasses an area of over 20,000 square metres with a building area of over 12,000 square metres. Situated approximately 10 kms from the CBD, Alepat Taylor's new premises is centrally located and offers easy access to Melbourne's major arterials, enabling it to continue to service its customers in the best way possible.

Alepat Taylor's goal is to build from strength to strength to reinforce its position as a leading contract manufacturer, importer and distributor to the Australian liquor industry.

Alepat Taylor looks forward to welcoming you to its new premises!
