2005 Arthur Hayes Scholarship sponsored by Parmalat

Darren Heathcote from FoodWorks Bungendore was named winner of the 2005 Arthur Hayes Scholarship. Congratulations also to Jessica Brien from Turvey Park in Wagga Wagga who received an Encouragement Award for most improved course participant. As the winner of the scholarship, Darren will receive a grant of $8,000 for further study and a place on the 2006 FoodWorks Study Tour.

The scholarship program is named in recognition of Arthur Hayes, one of the founding fathers of the FoodWorks Group. Arthur was CEO and a Director of FoodWorks from 1997 until 2001. Arthur is a true believer in the power of training and the positive impact it brings to the personal development of the individual. It is for this learning philosophy and the contribution Arthur made to FoodWorks that this training opportunity is named in his honour.

Participants met monthly at a "host" FoodWorks Supermarket. At every session, learning modules were delivered and discussed with topics as diverse as how to build and innovative culture to inventory control. A feature of each session was a selected guest speaker whose expertise was relevant to the topic and development of the participants.

As the final component of their course, participants presented their Store Improvement Plans to a panel of four judges and an audience of supporters.
