Australia's Top Winemakers

Three unique Australian winemakers have been crowned victorious at Gourmet Traveller WINE's 10th annual winemaker of the Year awards.

The inaugural Len Evans Award for Leadership was presented to David Hohnen (McHenry Hohnen Vintners, Margaret River). This award honours the charismatic wine legend's life and contribution to the industry.

The Winemaker of the Year 2007 award, which recognises excellence in the Australian wine industry, went to Steve Webber (De Bortoli, Yarra Valley). Steve Webber beat seven other finalists to claim the prestigious Winemaker of the Year Award accolade.

The Kemenys Medal, which encourages the pursuit of excellence in a young winemaker, was claimed by Barossa-based Kym Teusner (Teusner Wines). Kym Teusner, whose interest in wine developed during an eight-year stint managing Ayers House function centre, graduated from Adelaide University's oenology course in 2001. He went on to gain an assistant winemaking position at Torbreck, during which time Teusner Wines was born, before joining Rolf Binder.

"We're absolutely delighted to celebrate Gourmet Traveller WINE's trio of enormously talented winners - and it's particularly fitting that these represent three of Australia's most renowned wine regions" said Judy Sarris, editor of Gourmet Traveller WINE.

All three Gourmet Traveller WINE awards were judged by a panel of the magazine's regular contributors, including leading wine experts Huon Hooke, Andrew Caillard MW, Nick Bulleid MW, Peter Bourne, Sophie Otton and Peter Forrestal (chairman).
